By reason of the absence of Secretary Kapp the first business was the election of a secretary pro tem and D. P. Delap of Bendersville was chosen to this position. The turnout of the County Committee was not only large showing that the party is well and enthusiastically organized in the county, but the many candidates for the various offices in the gift of the party in this coming fall election were present as well as many other spectators.

When nominations for County Chairman were asked for S. Miley Miller was nominated and there being no other nomination, a motion carried to close the nominations and Mr. Miller was unanimously re-elected by acclamation. In taking the chair Mr. Miller said:

My fellow committeemen and fellow Democrats, I thank you for the honor conferred and I trust when I say the word honor that I will be understood that I don't simply mean the saying but that I feel the honor you have bestowed. I feel the confidence you have placed in me and I thank you. It is not the first time and as far as I know the committee and their chairman have been working in unison. We have been working together, for which I thank you. Our work has not been without results in the last six years and I trust that our work will be as fruitful of results in the future as it has been in the past. My chief aim is to discharge the duties with which I am entrusted so that I may deserve the good will of all my citizens.

Chairman Miller then spoke of the services of Secretary Wm. E. Kapp, how he faithfully and ably served as secretary for the past six years. I have never called upon Mr. Kapp but I found him always ready to do his duty. He told me recently he would not be a candidate for re-election to the office.

D. P. Delap was then nominated for Secretary and there being no other nominations, he was elected unanimously.

Paul A. Martin was nominated for Treasurer and was unanimously re-elected.

A motion prevailed for the appointment of a committee on resolutions and Chairman Miller appointed on that committee Wm. F. Weaver of Gettysburg, C. W. Johnson of Franklin, Geo. J. Kebill of Fairfield, Wm. L. Murren of Mt. Pleasant, and L. C. Pittenturf of Tyone. The committee withdrew to take up work of resolutions.

T. F. Day of Menallen then made a motion to change the 1st and 5th rules of the party, the words in italics being the proposed changes from words indicating annually, etc.

First. The management of the interests and business of the Democratic party of Adams county shall be placed in the hands of a county committee composed of committeemen elected as follows: Two from each district and an additional committeeman for every fifty voters over 100 to be determined by the number of votes cast at the last gubernatorial election, the committeemen to be biennially elected at the Spring Primary.

Fifth. The Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer shall be biennially elected by the County Committee elected at the Spring Primary at a meeting called for that purpose by the Chairman before the first day of July following and the terms of office of Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer shall begin on the first Monday of July and continue for two years or until their respective successors are elected. Candidates nominated at the Spring Primary shall be invited to be present at the biennial election meeting of said officers.

Chairman S. Miley Miller addressed the committeemen on these changes and there was discussion by others so that the position of such changes should be understood. The new primary act of this year provides that the election of party committeemen should take place at the Spring Primary and there is but one Spring Primary provided for, every other year, in the even numbered years, on the second Saturday of April for the election of delegates to State conventions, to provide for the nomination of State and national tickets. In such years the committeemen can only be chosen, so that it is necessary to change the first rule to make it conform to the law. The second proposed change is for the biennial election of chairman, secretary and treasurer. This change is not necessary under the new law. The committeemen after their election every other year can meet and elect their officers for two years if they see fit or fix a time to meet every year and elect officers for only a year at a time.

The party rules shall not be altered, amended or repealed without such alteration, amendment or repeal having been proposed at a meeting of the County Committee held at least three months prior to the meetings of said committee at which such alterations, amendments or repeal shall be adopted.

In accordance with Ninth Rule Chairman Miller declared that the proposed amendments could not be acted upon at this meeting but would be held over for action at a meeting more than three months later.

Chairman Miller then addressed the committeemen on the subject of borough and township nominations. That at the general election this fall a large number of borough and township offices would have to be filled. That the new primary method, while entirely adequate for the nomination to county offices, was not helpful to the securing of nominations of men for the borough and township offices. That many men would not secure a petition and get ten signatures in order to have their names go before the voters at the primaries. That the committeemen must often feel an embarrassment in filling out petitions. Chairman Miller thought the old fashioned way of having a ticket fixing day in every township and borough would help in the securing of tickets for the offices of school director, town council, supervisors, and many other smaller offices. That the committeemen could fix a day, put up posters and those who would gather could talk over the offices and persuade the acceptance of the offices by citizens and when such a township or borough ticket had been fixed at such a public meeting, the papers could then be made out under the new Primary Act. Such a meeting would not conflict with the filing of papers by any other citizens who chose so to do and would not effect in any way whatever the nominations to county offices.

Hon. E. L. Sheffer of East Berlin they had a hard time to get candidates for every office and no one cared to go to the trouble to get the ten signatures required by the law. He said he believed he was the oldest Democrat present, in his 77th year, and he advised the Committeemen to follow the suggestions of Chairman Miller and that they should select good men and then support them at the polls.

C. F. Bucher of Germany, said that the method advised by Chairman Miller was the one Germany had been following for several years and that it worked well.

F. F. McDermitt of Highland, spoke in favor of selecting the borough and township tickets in this way. He told of working for a company that had thousands of employees and that he received a letter before a recent election saying if the Republican ticket was not elected the work would shut down and that he knew every employee had received similar letters and he for one was tired of such things and thought the time had come for all Democrats to stick together, nominate a good ticket and elect their ticket.

In conclusion Chairman Miller advised: Use your best efforts to nominate a good ticket and depend upon it I will fight for the ticket nominated.

Attention was called to the meeting of the Democratic clubs of the State at Harrisburg on next Thursday, June 15th, that among the speakers will be these two great Democrats, Hon. Woodrow Wilson and Hon. Champ Clark. Adams county it was said should have a large representation at this meeting.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted and committee then adjourned.

Resolutions.

The Democratic County Committee of Adams County in annual assembly do hereby declare as follows:

1st. That the action of our County Chairman, S. Miley Miller at the State Central Committee of the Democratic party of the State in supporting the re-organization has our unqualified approval and endorsement. The vote in Adams county at last fall's election, as well as throughout the State demanded such a reorganization and the action of S. Miley Miller, County Chairman, in supporting the same was the only course by which to hold the confidence of the Democratic people of the State.

2nd. That such a complete reorganization of the Democratic party in the State is demanded and will result in new State leadership and regaining the confidence of the Democratic people. And the will of the majority in any reorganization should be respected and submitted to by any minority.

3rd. That wise Democratic leadership in Congress and the States has given great encouragement to Democracy and has made the future bright with hope for the triumph of Democratic principles in the nation and States and this message of the times admonishes all Democrats to active interest and enthusiastic support of Democratic principles and candidates in the coming elections.

4th. That the records of State Senator Wm. A. Martin and Representative James C. Cole in faithfully representing their constituents and in standing for what was best in the legislature just adjourned is hereby approved and commended and Adams county is to be congratulated that its Democratic representatives were found fighting the mass of vicious and machine legislation running riot in the last legislature of Pennsylvania.

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

THE SPIRIT OF LOYALTY WAS THE KEYNOTE OF THE OCCASION

The One Question is to Get Money if Old Gettysburg is to be Made Greater.

The commencement marking the closing of the 79th year of Gettysburg College was one clearly and strongly demonstrating the vigorous life of that institution. The commencement exercises with the fine address of Rev. Knobel will be found on second and third pages, but the significance of the event clearly spoke at the alumni collation. It is here that the real condition of things have been illustrating themselves.

The collation was a great success and proved a very happy occasion. With Dr. W. T. K. Sahm as toastmaster and Dr. Granville, Dr. Milton B. Hartzler and Dr. Dimmer Beeber as the speakers, good will reigned supreme.

It was the speech of Dr. Granville enthusiastically received and endorsed that gave the keynote to the occasion. Dr. Granville has been in Gettysburg one short year and this year has clearly demonstrated that he is the right man in the right place. He has been busy making himself acquainted with the Lutheran world upon which the institution depends for money and students. He has been making almost one continuous trip from one place to another, making scores of addresses, attending meetings, synods, dozens of banquets and wherever he has gone, his cause, Gettysburg College has been exploited.

In his speech at the collation Dr. Granville said the predominant note he had found everywhere was loyalty to old Gettysburg. That much progress had been made. The entrance requirements had been raised and Gettysburg College was now the equal of any standard college in the country in entrance requirements and curriculum. Student government had been an unqualified success, the faculty having no breeches of deportment to consider. Everything had been clear sailing. The only question was money and the college needed money to get the best instructors and to pay them living wages.

Dr. Granville declared that to make his greater we must work and get money. He told of the proposed gift of $50,000 by the Rockefeller Foundation, if $150,000 more was raised. That of this $31,100 had been secured during the year, $20,000 of it in Harrisburg as previously announced. The balance though not explained by Dr. Granville, is said to have been recently raised among the members of the Board of Trustees. The class of 1906 had presented funds for the laying of a concrete walk in front of Old Dorm and the prospects seemed good for the raising of the amount that must be had to secure the $30,000, provided hard work is done by all interested in Gettysburg College. The prospects were good for a large Freshman class and a larger attendance of students than ever before.

DEMOCRATIC STATE MEETING

To be Addressed by Gov. Woodrow Wilson, Speaker Clark and others.

The nine Democratic congressmen, most of the state senators and state representatives, the State central committee, and many of the leading newspaper men of the state, have acknowledged the invitation to attend the convention of the State Federation of Democratic clubs, at Harrisburg June 15, and the event promises to exceed in importance and enthusiasm anything the Democratic party has attempted in recent years.

The program at the Federation of Clubs, convention in Harrisburg next Thursday, June 15 will consist of the business session of delegates at 2 p. m., at which the officers of the federation for the ensuing year will be elected, and other important matters concerning the federation determined. At 6:30 o'clock the visiting delegates and speakers will be given a buffet lunch by the Harrisburg clubs at the board of trade rooms; and at 7 o'clock addresses by Governor Woodrow Wilson, Speaker Champ Clark, National Committeeman A. Mitchell Palmer and others will be made in the Casino theatre. The Commonwealth band will furnish music afternoon and evening and the Central Democratic club will open its rooms for all visitors.

COMMENCEMENT OF GETTYSBURG COLLEGE

NEW ORDER OF EXERCISES MARK THE FIRST COMMENCEMENT UNDER THE NEW ADMINISTRATION.

Rev. Frederick H. Knobel, of New York City, Delivers a Brilliant Address at the Graduation Exercises—Important Business of Board of Trustees.

The Commencement of Gettysburg College marked a departure from former graduating exercises and was a decided relief from the usual orations which have no message. In their place Rev. F. H. Knobel, of New York City, delivered an address that was brilliant, thoughtful and inspiring, as follows:

Mr. President, Gentlemen of the Faculty, Honored Members of the Board of Trustees, Ladies and Gentlemen, and you young men and women of the Graduating Class:

I congratulate you, standing at the gateways of branching roads of your chosen activities, upon the age in which all are to live and work.

Much depends upon knowing the signs of the times. To succeed you must read aright the significance of your age. Every age of the world has its trend, drift, current. Origins and ends can discern as little as whence the wind cometh or whither it goeth. The world passes from one to the other side like surging changes of dissolving views. But the swirl of the flooding current is always irresistible. Largely conceived it is an awful thought to realize how we all are swept on, really unconscious thereof, by the world-wide drift of our age. This is the most striking proof of man's individual weakness and lack of free determination. We are all in a very deep sense creatures of our times.

Whether then are we being carried to-day? Many say we are living in an age of transition. But this is only a shrewd method of trying to hide the inability to answer. There are those who seriously see little of great value remaining for any age to have as its work. To them every conceivable philosophical system has been elaborated, scrubby second growths alone are manifest. In literature the product is fully matured, no great themes remain to be worked up. In painting, sculpture, architecture and music they see nothing but imitation and repetition. The supreme results of human genius have all been brought forth. Every social and governmental experiment of earth has been made. We are told that deep acquaintance of material development, invention and applied science reveals the limit as practically reached. Industrial arts are all in a highly developed condition. So there remains nothing to give any period glory.

Other pessimists shout of this as the supremely industrial age and speak of the material progress while others condemn the crass materialism, mammon worship of the times, each presenting their myriad of manifest proofs. There are shallow optimists. Even Mr. Bryan knowing the world as he does, in a recent speech on the signs of the times, gives nothing but an array of superficial facts under three headings, the world's progress intellectually, morally and towards popular government; nor does he draw any deduction therefrom.

I believe our age is to be indexed gloriously. It will take its place in history with a single significant title carried by none other. The world is being deeply inspired by a distinct though but half obscured vision. It is a time of which poet and sage have dreamed and prophesied. It is the age of humanity in the largest sense of the word. Call it the brotherhood of men if you wish, for that is the ideal. It began possibly with Darwin's establishment of the unity of the human race. Its marks are these: First, age long barriers between men are crumbling and falling. Second, a man must be a world man to-day. Third, the world is being forced to know that though self-preservation may be the first law of nature but not the first law of the true man. In other words man can see all his fellowmen to-day, he must think of and for all and he must do for all. Let me briefly present the four-fold proof of this trend of the times.

First, I call attention to the huge fusion of the human race to-day. It is the largest world to-day, every corner having been ransacked and known. But it is the most compact world because of the influences everywhere of education and culture, because of the instant communication and dissemination. In this large compact world there is an ever increasing fusion of all men. Babel has been reversed,—not as to the confusion, but as to the scattering. Every man's hand is in reach of every other man's hand to-day. Think of the race problems with which every nation concerns itself. The world largely segregated and killed the red men, but cannot kill the yellow, black, nor even the half-breed Central and South American, nor even can these races be segregated.

Think of the religious interminglings and conflicts. Discerning observation of vigorous propaganda on the part of Eastern religions, of eclectic tendencies of oriental philosophy at the foundation of modern so-called Christian cults, reveals that not only on heathen soil will Christianity have hand to hand conflicts but must fight to hold territory already gained.

Think of the mingling of the race caused by the necessities of commerce and the pleasures of travel and the heroism of missionary development. Think of the spirit of world conference, which leads all societies and organizations to be international and to hold world congresses, over 200 are known, covering every large branch of human activity. Think of the mingling of the professions and occupations. Think of the race problem, religious conflict, commercial mingling and other influences forcing all men to-day into the fusion of the race and the significance of the age as one of humanity grows apparent.

The second convincing evidence of the age's meaning is the astonishing strength of the peace movement in the world. We pass by its voluminous accounts in the news of the day, where once a single arbitration treaty was the subject of supreme importance. The present propositions for unlimited arbitration between United States, England, France, Germany and Japan, along with the possibility of an international tribunal growing out of the Hague Conferences almost lead one to dream of complete disarmament and a lasting universal peace. There are said to be 142 arbitration treaties in all, and of these 96 were signed in the first ten years of this century and nine this year between six American and six European nations. Patriotism to-day is not "My country—right or wrong," but consciousness of a destiny, of a mission for the world. Victor Hugo said "The only battlefields shall be the market open to commerce and the mind open to new ideas." We are in the age of humanity.

Third, give a minute's consideration of the strength of socialism in its influence. I use the word in its largest sense, designating as such all social unrest. Some of its results we shall see under our fourth consideration. It needs special mention because of its sway in the minds of all men. To those who know its doctrines, the evidences of its control are manifest, in the constant enactments of all legislatures. I am not a socialist in any technical sense of the term, but sure we are all persuaded with Horace Mann that "Feudalism of Capital is not a whit less formidable than Feudalism of Force. The millionaire is as dangerous to the welfare of the community in our day as was the baronial lord in the Middle Ages. The day is sure to come when men will look back upon prerogatives of capital at the present time with as severe and just a condemnation as we now look back upon the predatory chieftain of the Dark Ages." For our purpose to-day, we need only realize how the might of socialism is irresistible forcing every man to think and do for all men. The huge gifts and endowments for the general good in these times are but an evidence of that might of socialism.

Fourth, the entire trend of the financial and commercial world is all one way—towards the thought of humanity. It is to be noted not only here in America but also in the other two great commercial nations, Great Britain and Germany. It is marked by one simple idea—free trade. Again I do not use the word in the accepted narrow sense, but as including the political thought and very much else. The struggle since the Reformation has been for freedom. The world has won freedom of mind and freedom of body. The next step is freedom of trade. The idea is that the individual man or community possessing their special divinely given ability and opportunity to take part in barter or trade of the world shall not be hampered or handicapped, in the free exercise thereof because others enjoy special privileges. This is freedom of trade. Every restraint and interference must come off. The day is near at hand when every special privilege—rebate, discount, premium, and bonus will be illegal. There will be no two prices for anything to different men or groups of men. Governmental control and regulation of all trade is an actuality. Governmental fixing of prices is an actuality. Governmental adjustment of right profits is an actuality. Thought for humanity decreeing that every individual, community and nation shall have unrestrained, unhampered freedom in its trade is no longer a subject over which to argue. The simple question is how quickly shall come and how best may that freedom be established. Such is the age, I sincerely believe, one of humanity, world citizenship as characterized by Lowell's song.

Where is the true man's fatherland
Is it where he by chance is born
Doth not the yearning spirit scorn
In such scant borders to be spanned
Oh yes! his fatherland must be
As the blue heaven, wide and free.

Where'er a single slave doth pine
Where'er one may help another—
Thank God for such a birthright, brother
That spot on earth is thine and mine
There is the true man's birthplace grand
His is world-wide fatherland.

Let us make no mistake. Let us not suppose that this movement towards humanity came of man's own desire or planning, as though it were altruistic or other highly moral motives controlling men. Do not suppose man as a whole is from his heart growing unselfish. Bitter antagonism to all these movements is manifest. Even the great peace movements have largely behind them such selfish motives as cost of war, hindrance of business and fear of the yellow peril. Far deeper than man's conscious will lies the cause. It is the force of Providence, the love of God for the world, aiming to write His constant desires, and His will in the very history of mankind.

Finally, whence in that Providence may help be expected for the solution of these awful problems? problems before which the giants of the age stand bewildered and helpless?

America? Doubtless we have a noble part to fulfill. It is our mission, our destiny. Here have been a mingling of races, nations and religions. We have become a testing-ground—a melting pot. Here was the initiative for peace. Here commercial battles are being fought. I believe there is in our people as a whole a readiness of response for what appeals to moral sentiment.

The Jew—natively religious, peace loving commercial man, scattered among all people—will have his part in the development of this age of humanity.

Strangely Russia—that sleeping power of tremendous bulk—stands as a great bulwark between the East and the West. She stands as a great intermediary. In her races are mingled as perhaps nowhere else. Above all within her borders lies marvellous asleep the great force of Greek Catholicism. For centuries that force has been there undeveloped, never progressing. Who can doubt providential purpose therein, waiting for just such a time as this. Is there any significance furthermore to the Czar's having called, so strangely, the first Hague Conference?

Whatever be the answer to such guesses, the age and opportunity calls everywhere for men of red blood, red mind, red heart. Men seeing the world through red lines, lines of blood shed in sacrifice for others. Men who believe in the Power that rules the ages, who believe in Divine Sonship whereby human brotherhood is to be, believe in the One Son who exemplifies and inspires the living, dying service for mankind.

Young men and women I have aimed to picture something of the age which is yours. You cannot avoid a part in these things, no matter what may be your choice of work. You go from this institution with its present vigorous leadership and efficient instruction and Christian inspiration have prepared you for your age. May God give you grace to live worthily in an age worth living in.

MASTER OF SCIENCE DEGREE.

The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon Dr. Chas. B. Fager, Jr., of Harrisburg, and L. L. D. on Dr. M. B. Hartzell and Dimmer Beeber, both of Philadelphia, and they were introduced by Dr. C. M. Stock, D. D., of Hanover, as follows:

On behalf of the trustees, and by their action, I have the honor to present to you for the degree of Doctor of Science, Chas. B. Fager, Jr., learned in the theory of medicine, but specially distinguished as a teacher, organizer and head of the Technical High School of the city of Harrisburg.

On behalf of the trustees and by their action, I have the honor to present to you for the degree of Doctor of Laws, Milton Bixler Hartzell. This degree is the highest which our college bestows; it means not merely eminence, but rather pre-eminence in some honorable line of human endeavor. As the custodian of our official records I would state that in the fifty years of the history of this institution, viz, from 1850 to 1900, this degree was conferred upon sixteen men, and but four of them were our own graduates. When during the past year the authorities of the University of Pennsylvania sought testimony from men highly learned in certain lines of the science of medicine, the judgment of many was to the effect that Dr. Hartzell was the highest authority upon diseases of the skin in the United States, and when time was afforded to hear from beyond the sea, it was generally added that in this line he stood pre-eminent in the world. Thereupon, most fittingly, he was unanimously elected Professor of Dermatology in the University of Pennsylvania.

On behalf of the trustees and by their action, I have the honor to present to you for the degree of Doctor of Laws, Dimmer Beeber. Here and there along the years a rare soul attains pre-eminence in one line of activity, but I this day have the unique honor of introducing a man pre-eminent in three widely varying ways. He is pre-eminent as a lawyer, and was so crowned when he was elevated to the bench of the Superior Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Further, by common consent the most representative American city is our State's metropolis—Philadelphia, and the most pure and powerful political and political (Continued on page three.)

is Better than all Others for these very Pertinent Reasons:

Most Comfortable bed ever slept on—soft, yielding, but springy and resilient—never packs or gets lumpy, or loses its feeling of newness. That is because it is made of Ostermoor sheets; built, not stuffed. We have scores of letters from doctors and competent judges who declare it the only

Absolutely sanitary mattress because dust cannot work into it; no vermin can harbor in it; a sun-bath is all the renovating it ever needs; it will not absorb dampness, disease germs, or any poison from perspiration or the atmosphere. It is always

Perfectly Dry because non-absorbent. If the ticking is dry, the mattress is dry. No taking cold from it, no unpleasant or musty odor about it; always fresh and sweet. Testimonials in our free book bear witness for those who have used it for thirty years or more and who do not hesitate to say that it Lasts a Life-time and stays in perfect condition. It never needs remaking or renovating. You may remove and clean the tick as often as you like.

No other mattress in the world, of any material, at any price, from any maker or through any dealer, can truthfully make and prove all the claims as can the Ostermoor. Do not take our word for it—our word is good—but if you will triotic organization of Philadelphia is the Union League. This man has been twice the League's president, elected once after a contest—the second time by unanimous consent. For these two reasons the inauguration committee named him for this degree in October last. But at the time we were here met, he was delivering an address in Los Angeles, California, before the Banker's Association of America, upon "The Duties and Responsibilities of a Trust Company in Connection with Securities to be offered to the Public," which address, largely copied in the financial columns of all the leading newspapers of the land, and most favorably commented upon editorially, marked this man, the President of the Commonwealth Title Insurance and Trust Company of Philadelphia as an authority pre-eminent in the realm of Finance. There fore, pre-eminent as a lawyer, pre-eminent in the purest political life of the nation, pre-eminent in the intricate realm of Finance, I present Dinner Beeber.

And, Mr. President, this is one of the proudest moments of my life, as I say to you that these three men call the dear old college of which you are the honored head, Alma Mater.

ALUMNI COLLATION.

Immediately after the commencement exercises, the alumni collation was held in Examination Hall. There were about 325 in attendance. The hall was decorated with pennants and orange and blue crepe paper, hung from the walls to a lattice work formed under the chandeliers. The dinner was served in fine form and was enjoyed immensely by all. Following this, speeches were made by several prominent men. Chas. Fite '98, made a short speech introducing the toastmaster, Dr. W. K. T. Salm '72. Dr. Salm is president of the Federation of Gettysburg Clubs. The manner in which he carried out his part of the program was easily the feature. His remarks at all times were full of wit and conducive to good spirit among all. Dr. Granville then responded. He thanked all for their loyal support during the year and gave a brief review of the work which has been accomplished thus far. He also announced that the class of 1906 has furnished funds for the placing of a concrete walk in front of the Old Dorm. Dr. Milton B. Hartzell '74, Professor of Dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania, was the next speaker. His remarks were brief and all to the effect that he had paid Dr. Beeber to do this part of the work. Dr. D. Beeber '74, a renowned lawyer of Philadelphia, then responded. His talk was of a high character and thoroughly appreciated. Most of the remarks were based on the "Possibilities of Pennsylvania College." Earl Bowman spoke in behalf of the graduating class. The meeting was then turned into an alumni business meeting.

President Granville submitted the following report to the Board of Trustees and all his recommendations were adopted:

I have the honor to hereby submit to your honorable Board my first annual report as President of Pennsylvania College. In doing so my heart is filled with gratitude and thanksgiving to God for having safely guided the destinies of this great institution through another year. To me personally it has been a year of many new experiences, and words cannot express my appreciation of the cordial co-operation that I have received from you as a board, from the faculty, the student body, the alumni and friends of the institution. Whatever has been accomplished during the last year has been made possible because of this unanimous support given the administration in its efforts to promote the interests of the institution which we all love and have promised to serve. The outlook for the future is very encouraging and if by the grace of God this spirit of loyalty and co-operation continues, it will surely mean greater things for "Old Gettysburg" than anyone of us has yet dreamed of.

Entrance Requirements. In conformity with previous resolutions of the Board of Trustees, the faculty has worked out the new scheme of entrance requirements. This requires preparation equivalent to the full fourteen units established by the Uniform College Entrance Examination Board. It will be observed that students may now enter the Freshman class without either Greek or Latin, but in that event an equivalent amount of preparation in modern languages must be offered. The Board of Education of Philadelphia has placed Pennsylvania College on its list of approved colleges to which Philadelphia High School graduates who have earned one of the city's $100 free scholarships may go for a college course.

New Courses. The rearrangement of the present curriculum as well as the new courses offered, is all outlined in our new catalogue and therefore I shall not take up your time now to explain those matters in detail. Signs are multiplying, however, which indicate that these changes and additions will prove highly beneficial. That a not inconsiderable number of new students will enter because of the work offered is already evident.

Attendance. The attendance for the last year is as follows:

In College
Seniors	34
Juniors	65
Sophomores	72
Freshmen	58
Partial Students	21
Special	2
Collegiate Department	252
Preparatory Department	71
Total	523

This is an increase of nineteen over last year's attendance and the largest in the history of the institution. It is of course too early to predict what the attendance will be next year but all indications point to a substantial increase next year for the following reasons:

- The graduating class is small.
- From the number of dormitory rooms that have been reserved for next year by the remaining three classes it is evident that there will be a very slight reduction in their number next year. The new courses offered will hold some students here who under the old arrangement of the curriculum would have left for other institutions.
- The raising of the entrance requirements is not going to have as much effect as was feared in reducing the number entering. Even if this does have a tendency to reduce the number entering, it is quite certain that the new arrangement of courses and the new engineering work will attract new material which will at least offset the loss in numbers that was expected on account of the raised entrance requirements.

Moral Standards. There has been a decided improvement in the moral tone of the student body during the last year, and an increase in the number of young men taking an active part in the Christian work done in the institution. Among the causes for this fortunate state of affairs I believe that the chief are student government and the splendid work done by our student Y. M. C. A. Secretary, Rev. Rinard. A tangible result is shown in the increase in the number of young men in the three lower classes who intend to enter the ministry over what has been the case for some years.

Women's Leagues of Pennsylvania College. For two years the three women's Gettysburg leagues of Harrisburg, Pittsburg and York supported the student secretary at the college. At its December meeting the Board of Trustees endorsed the movement, in consequence of which a central league has been formed and new branch leagues have been organized at Gettysburg, Chambersburg, Shippensburg and Philadelphia. The aim of these leagues is to help the college in a material way by annual contributions to the college for its various needs and to interest the women of our Church, and therefore all our people, in the cause of higher Christian college education in general and as represented by Pennsylvania College in particular.

Student Government. A tentative scheme for student government was adopted by the faculty and the student body before college closed last June, and as soon as college opened last September the plan was put in operation. Student government has been conducted by the Student Council which consists of four seniors, three juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman, all elected by their respective classes. There has been a very strong sentiment in the student body supporting student government, and this, together with the splendid personnel of the Student Council has made it succeed far beyond the hopes of its warmest advocates. To what extent it has succeeded can be realized from the fact that during the whole school year not a single case of order or discipline in the college has been even considered by the faculty. The Student Council has exercised judgment and discretion of very high order in performing their duties and it can be said without chance of successful contradiction that in the memory of living graduates, never before has the order and discipline been better, or the conditions of living on the campus more satisfactory. Student government is so new that at best we can perhaps only call it an experiment, but all indications point to a successful continuation of the plan. It is to be hoped that some such form of student government may be extended to the Preparatory Department.

Athletic Council. Before college opened last September the Executive Committee of the Board met for the purpose of formulating a plan for the management of athletics in the institution. As a result the control of all the athletic interests of the college was vested in the Athletic Council, consisting of three members, namely: Prof. A. R. Wentz, Chairman, from faculty; Mr. M. K. Eckert, Treasurer, from alumni; Mr. John Weimer, Secretary, from the student body. In addition two advisory members were appointed, namely: Rev. H. A. Rinard, Graduate Athletic Manager; Mr. F. C. Vail, Athletic Coach.

The duties of all these men as well as of the Athletic Captains and Student Athletic Managers were clearly defined and everything was placed on a clear-cut business basis. The plan adopted has worked out very satisfactory, not only from the point of view of intercollegiate athletic victories and financial returns, but it has also promoted an increased interest in healthy athletic sports among the whole student body. Too much credit cannot be given to the members of the Athletic Council and to Mr. Vail and Rev. Rinard for this satisfactory state of affairs.

General Alumni Fund. The movement inaugurated by the Pen and Sword Society for a General Alumni Fund to which all the alumni and friends of the institution are asked to make an annual contribution has great possibilities in it both for the present and the future. Primarily it opens an opportunity for those who cannot give largely to contribute each year according to their means, and all can give something; but what is also of great importance, it will tend to keep all in touch with the college. For the greater the investment of our alumni in money and effort for the institution, the greater the good to the college and to them. And if something annually from this source towards general expenses can be counted on, we can move ahead with our plans and betterments with more confidence, and therefore also with greater assurance of success.

Movement for New Endowment. At the October meeting of the Board of Trustees a committee on endowment consisting of W. A. Granville, M. H. Valentine, C. M. Stock, W. L. Gladfelter, and M. H. Buehler, was appointed to formulate plans for securing new endowment. This committee met and reported at the December meeting a plan for the securing of new endowment to the amount of $300,000 to provide for the needs of five years expansion. A formal application has been made by this committee to the General Education Board for $50,000 towards the securing of the first $200,000 and this has been granted. Over $30,000 has been raised during the last year for permanent endowment, some of which is in cash, but the greater part of it is in notes payable in installments, all abundantly secured.

DEATH LIST OF A WEEK

C. E. AUGHINBAUGH, STATE
PRINTER, OF HARRISBURG.

Isaac H. Pecker, a Leading Citizen and Democrat of Liberty Township.

CHAS. EDWARD AUGHINBAUGH died at home in Harrisburg on last Wednesday evening, June 7th, aged 57 years and 3 months. He was born in Gettysburg, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Aughinbaugh of this place. His education was received in the Gettysburg public schools. He learned the printing trade in the "Star and Sentinel" office and bookbinding under Henry Ninestead of this place. He went to Harrisburg in 1890 and was with the McFarland Printery for four years. In 1894, with H. B. Orr, he established a printing and bookbinding plant which grew from small proportions to a very large plant, and in June 1909, he became State Printer and Binder. He was a member of the Lutheran Church and of the Harrisburg F. and A. M. Lodge. The funeral was held on last Saturday, the body being brought to this place Saturday morning and taken to the home of Miss Alice and Mrs. Peter Sheads on East High street, and interment was made in the Evergreen Cemetery in the afternoon. He married Miss Sarah S. Sheads, who survives with three daughters, Misses Bessie L., Mary M. and Edna S., the two first named occupying responsible positions in his plant. He is also survived by two sisters, Miss Martha B. Aughinbaugh of this place, and Mrs. H. C. Leeds of Washington, D. C.

ISAAC HENRY PECKER one of the prominent citizens and Democrats of Liberty township passed away on Monday of last week June 5, just four days short of 75 years of age. While he was ill but a short time yet it was during his enlistment in the Civil War that he contracted an ailment from which he suffered all his life and which contributed to his last and fatal illness. He was born on the farm on which he resided all the great of his life. It lies in the highlands of Liberty township and the house of his father still stands near Mr. Pecker's late home. He enjoyed the highest esteem in his own community and wherever known. He was a school teacher for 25 years, later a school director, justice of the peace and always active in Democratic politics, having been a candidate on several occasions for County Commissioner. He was patriotic and liberal in spirit, having presented the Emmitsburg High School with the flag pole that graces the school yard. The funeral was held on last Wednesday, services being held in St. Joseph's Catholic Church of which he had been a devout member all his life, and interment was made in the church cemetery. He leaves a widow, nine daughters and two sons and a number of grandchildren and his death is the first to break the family circle. The children are Mrs. Anna M. Slagle, of Emmitsburg; Mrs. Joseph Kemper, of near Emmitsburg; Mrs. Joseph Swoetinger, of near Waynesboro; Mrs. John Knox, of Gettysburg; Mrs. William Roberts, of Baltimore; Mrs. James Boyle, of near Emmitsburg; Mrs. George Stouter, of Mount St. Mary's; Misses Euphemia and Carrie and John and Henry at home.

MRS. MARY ELIZABETH SMITH, widow of William Smith, died June 6th, at her residence in York. She was in her eighty-fifth year. Mrs. Smith was one of the best known women of York, having resided there for many years. Surviving are four children—Horace Smith, Mrs. W. W. McClellan and Miss Cassandra Smith, all of York, and Mrs. Ida Baugher, of Gettysburg; also a sister, Mrs. M. B. Spahr, of Hanover. Funeral was held Thursday afternoon. Interment in Prospect Hill cemetery.

MRS. SUSANNA GOLDEN, died Monday, June 5th at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Winebrenner, in Gettysburg, aged 78 years, 11 mo. and 19 days. She leaves four daughters and three sons, Mrs. Luther Golden and Mrs. U. S. Kressler, of Hanover; Mrs. Erb, of Dover; Mrs. Charles Winebrenner, of Gettysburg; Harvey and Reuben Golden, of York, and Harry Golden, whose home is in the west. She also leaves twenty-five grandchildren. Mrs. Susanna Golden was born at Davidsburg, York Co. After her marriage she first lived at Golden's on W. M. R. R. and afterwards at Goldenville until the death of her husband, five years ago. Since then she has made her home with her daughter, and for the past two years she has been an invalid. Funeral was Thursday, June 8, with interment in the Evergreen Cemetery.

WILLIAM JOHNS died on last Tuesday, June 6, in Hanover, from bronchial pneumonia, aged 67 years. He was son of Samuel Johns of Gettysburg, and was twice married. His first wife was Miss Anna Waltman, of near Gettysburg, who died in 1879. In 1881 he was married to Miss Mary Small, daughter of Aloysius Small of McSherrystown, who survives him.

with three children, Mrs. May Hocken-smith of near Mt. Rock, Mrs. David Staumbaugh of Hanover, and John Johns of Manchester, Md. Also three children by the first marriage, Harry and William Johns of Baltimore, and Samuel Johns of York. Funeral was on Friday, June 9, services by Rev. George W. Baker; interment in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

WILLIAM CARBAUGH died suddenly at Fayetteville on June 3. He was seized with a stroke in the morning and growing worse rapidly soon passed away. He leaves a wife and the following children: Mrs. Wm. Beck of Chambersburg, Henry W. Nellie A. Elizabeth and Milton, all of Fayetteville, and one sister, Mrs. Chas. McNew of Gettysburg, also survive him. Mr. Carbaugh was a veteran of the Civil War. Funeral was on last Tuesday.

Mrs. J. PHILIP WAGAMAN died last Thursday at the home of Philip Wagaman in the Cold Spring district. In her father-in-law's family, where she died, there are four cases of smallpox now under quarantine. The death of Mrs. Wagaman was thought to be from appendicitis. When notified, Dr. H. M. Hartman and Dr. J. R. Dickson drove up to the place on Thursday afternoon but as the distance is great the woman died before their arrival. The interment was at the Cold Spring Mission Church.

CHAS. L. BITTINGER, editor and one of the publishers of the Oceans, Fla., "Star," died on May 31st, aged 70 years and 6 days. He was the twelfth and youngest child of Joseph Bittinger who resided on the old Bittinger farm in Berwick township. He was a member of the "Border Guards" of Hanover in 1861, enlisted in the 76th Pa. Vol. Inf., and in the assault on Fort Wagner, a defense of Charleston, July 11, 1863, he was wounded and captured, being held a prisoner for 21 months. He was in the grocery business in Chicago in 1872 and burnt out by the great fire. By reason of failing health in the early 80's he went to Florida in 1884, went into the publishing business. He was twice married and is survived by his second wife and one daughter by the last marriage.

WM. J. COLLINS died on Monday afternoon in Mt. Joy township from effects of pneumonia in January, never having fully recovered. He was about 58 years of age. He enjoyed the respect of every one who knew him. He leaves a wife one son and two daughters, L. U. Collins of My Joy, Mrs. Clarence Wolf and Miss Bessie at home. He is survived by two brothers and two sisters, ex-Prothonotary Amos J. Collins of this place; C. C. Collins of Mt. Joy; Mrs. H. Bucher of Gettysburg and Mrs. J. F. Rider of Cumberland township. Funeral Thursday at 10 a. m.

A Conspiracy

By Martha McCulloch-Williams
(Copyrighted, 1908 by Associated Literary Press)

"You may come along if you want to, but I should think you'd hate to be always tagging," Berta said, with a small, insolent laugh. Berta was a beauty and a belle. Linda, her sister, older by two years, was neither.

According to the countryside, Linda was even uglier.

People who were all for roses and dimples and sunshiny smiles saw no beauty in Linda's olive complexion, her severely classic profile and the slim figure, which they called thin.

She did not smile much, and she laughed so rarely in public that gossip said she did not know how. Before she was sixteen she had been set down as a predestined spinster.

It was far otherwise with Berta, who was a damask rose embodied in adorable flesh and blood. Linda at twenty-one had never had a beau. Berta's conquests could not be reckoned upon all her fingers.

At first Berta liked to have Linda go out with her, finding in her dark pallor a fine foil for her own charms. But after awhile she grew in a strange, unaccountable way resentful of Linda. It seemed a reflection on the family that its elder daughter was so nearly a social cipher. At least that was what Berta told herself. Everybody feels the sovereign need for a good excuse to justify an unkind action.

Not for worlds would she have admitted to herself her feeling really had its origin in certain praises of Linda spoken by a man when she herself had resolved to marry.

Alston Wade was the man. He was the catch of the county. He lived twenty miles away and had not known the Lee girls until six months before. Then they had met at the county fair, and after that they had not been able to go anywhere without finding him there. Not that they objected. Wade was the kind of man to whom no one could object—not even a young woman predestined to spinsterhood.

Linda danced but rarely; therefore Berta had well nigh monopolized Alston's attention. He had made opportunities, for all that, to talk with Linda and had even been unwise enough to tell Linda's sister that she rested and cheered him as might a fresh and fragrant breeze.

Berta had cooed that Linda was truly the dearest old thing. When they were home again and for weeks thereafter she did not spare the dearest old thing one possible pin prick.

"You won't be lonesome. All the old maids in town are sure to be at the Anslays," she ran on as they stepped into the carriage. She had been hoping Linda would not go to the lawn party. It was the first of the season. Nobody but Peggy Ansley would have risked such a thing thus early, even though May had come in summer warm.

"It would be better if you'd put on a black frock, a short one, and a white apron. Then you could help serve things," she went on.

Linda smiled gravely. "And you could have worn my chip hat," she replied, with a faint twinkle. "I know it's almost as becoming to you as you are to it. But I'm getting to be selfish as I grow older."

"The hat doesn't matter. If people see me they never think of what I have on," said Berta. "I'm not just part of the scenery, like some people."

Linda flushed and made a motion toward the carriage door, almost as if she would leave it. In a moment, however, she sank back on the cushion, saying evenly: "Well, after all, the scenery has its uses. Anyway, I'm going to have the best time I can. As you say, I shan't be lonesome. Peggy says she's asked everybody in town over six months old."

"Yes, I know it'll be the same as a Sunday school picnic. I fully expect to see you marching about looking like the head of an orphan asylum," Berta commented spitefully. Linda only smiled again. After a minute she said very slowly: "At least I'll escape tagging that way. And you mustn't be spiteful if for once I have more followers than you."

Soon they rolled through the Ansley gates in sight of green lawns, flower decks and soft as velvet. Knots of people flocked the turf, the women brave in light spring garments and even the men showing hints of the season's enlivening in their more sober attire.

Children ran around picking flowers unbidden or flung them down to roll ecstatically on the grass. Berta lost her scowl at the sight. She was a woman for all her hard ambitions.

Linda longed to gather the toddlers in her arms and carry them off to fairyland. She controlled herself and walked decorously among them, only stopping now and then to pat a tousled curly head.

She had on a rose pink frock, with smothered of blue lace at throat and wrists. Somehow in spite of Berta's taunts her spirits had risen until her mood matched her appearance.

More than one person looked after her, half startled, as she passed along. Young men for the most part made a rush for Berta and hung about her as she moved, but more than one, dropping out, said inwardly, "Linda's nearly as pretty this afternoon."

All unconscious of looks and unspoken thought, Linda went on to the farther edge, where the older people were established in garden chairs or upon settles. They were talking and laughing among themselves.

There were less than a dozen of them, all lifelong friends or enemies. A little apart from them sat a white haired woman smiling at the scene happily, but quite aloof. Evidently she was a stranger. Instinctively Linda sat down beside her, saying, with a smile, "If you would rather not talk I'll be as still as a mouse."

"But I want to talk very much," the white haired lady replied. "It's hard enough to be only a looker on when you know everybody and can see under the surface. I know nobody here except the man who brought me. Bringing me was a whim of his, and I never cross his whims. He knows Mrs. Ansley—in fact, she is a sort of family connection. And he is coming back to me after awhile. I think he has something on his mind that he wants to get off."

"How delightful I feel as if I were sharing a conspiracy," Linda answered, with a soft smile.

The strange lady leaned across and patted her hand, saying impulsively: "It is a conspiracy, and you shall know how it ends after it ends. But now tell me who is who and all about everybody. I dare ask that because from your face I know you never tell the things people would rather were left unsaid."

"I'm a rank impostor. It's all my pink frock," Linda said, pretending to whisper. "In reality I'm awfully grumpy and grim. I'm beginning to sympathize with the woman who said she was never entirely at peace with God and man except when she felt entirely well dressed."

"So your soul has on its pink frock, too," the strange lady said, with a glimmering smile. Linda nodded. "And I am glad," she said briefly. "I am half ready to promise myself never to wear black nor to feel black again. It's such a shame when there are the flowers and little children and good friends to make living worth while."

"You'll make it worth while wherever you go," the white haired lady said, with conviction. "Now quit being angelic and turn gossip. Remember, I don't know anybody or anything about anybody."

Linda began eagerly to tell the tale of guests. Now and again her listener nodded at a name, tapped her fingers in her palm and said to herself, "I used to know the father," or, "I can see the favor of the mother." Evidently she was somebody newly returned to once familiar ground.

Still Linda had no suspicion of her identity until she saw Alston Wade coming quickly toward them. All at once it flashed upon her that his mother had been fifteen years away with a daughter who had married a foreigner and gone to live abroad.

Alston had Berta beside him, and Berta was more vivaciously beautiful than ever. Yet some shade fell over her radiance as they approached near enough to see who sat beside Mrs. Wade.

As soon as Alston had presented Berta to his mother she said impatiently to Linda: "Peggy Ansley is hunting high and low for you. Run away to her. You know she depends on you to help her with things."

"We will go together. I also am going to help," Alston said, taking Linda's hand. "Mother, I'm sure Miss Berta will be very, very kind to you, although," dropping his voice significantly, "she can't make up to you for losing Linda, because nobody can possibly do that."

"Have you managed to get the question off your mind, my boy?" Mrs. Wade asked, with seeming irrelevance, but a meaning smile. And her son answered, with an ardent look at Linda: "Yes; it is quite off my mind. But there's another question, a very much more important one, that Linda must settle for me right away."

"I told her she should hear the end of the conspiracy," Mrs. Wade said, laughing. Her son paused a second to say over his shoulder, "She can't rest content with simply hearing it, because she herself is the end."

The Licorice Shrub.

The licorice shrub is like the hazel, growing to the height of four or five feet, and the root is the only part that has value. It is found in damp, sandy places, chiefly along the banks of rivers around the Caspian sea, and is dug by peasant women, who earn from 10 to 15 cents a day working for the licorice collectors. The root sells for a few cents a pound in the raw state. The larger part is shipped in that condition, but about 20 per cent of the product is boiled and crushed, and the juice is made into the hard black paste such as can be bought in the drug stores. In 1848 an Italian began to cultivate licorice, and since that time many people have adopted the industry because the cultivated root contains much more sap than that of the wild plant and costs very little more. The only attention necessary is to keep the soil loosened and well watered. The cultivated licorice brings much higher prices in the market and produces a much greater quantity of paste in proportion.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Origin of the Opera.

In one sense the opera is one of the oldest forms of entertainment, for its origin is to be found in the old Greek drama. In its modern sense, however, it dates from the year 1600, when Peri produced the first true Italian opera to grace the festivities of the marriage of Henry IV. of France and Marie de Medici. The work attracted great attention, and many Italian nobles figured in the cast. In France the opera was the outcome of the ballet and in England of the masque. Purcell is entitled to the honor of producing the first real English opera, although one of Ben Jonson's masques was set to music as early as 1617.

To John Weaver, the Respondent in above entitled action.

Take notice: That you are hereby notified to be and appear at a Court of Common Pleas of Adams County to be held in Gettysburg, Adams County, Pa., on June 19th, 1911 at 10 o'clock A. M. to defend in above action and show cause why the Divorce a vinculo matrimonii prayed for and on the grounds alleged in the libel should not be granted.

ELIAS FISSEL, High Sheriff of Adams County.

A letter of Mrs. Richard was read asking Council to pay a bill of $7.50 which was said to have been caused by delay in giving the grade for her pavement so that workmen lost time for which she had to pay. The request on motion was refused.

A petition of Baltimore St. business men for the entrance into alley between stores of Geo. E. Stock and W. F. Gilliland to be made level was referred to Highway Committee with authority to act and property owners it was suggested could improve appearances of alley.

The Civic Club was voted the annual donation of $10 for sprinkling.

Ordinances for uniform curbs, and ordaining West Middle St. were finally passed.

Borough Surveyor Foreman having been repeatedly asked to come here and give the grade for a Chambersburg St. pavement which has been open for some time and having failed to come, Councilmen complained of the trouble to get surveyor when wanted and that he had not kept his promise to open an office in town and be here part of every week and a motion carried that Secretary inform him of the unsatisfactory conditions of his services.

Fire Marshall McClellan reported the exterior of Sieber stable on West Middle St. safe as far as danger from fire was concerned.

After bills were ordered paid Council adjourned for the month.

Robbins Show on June 19

Frank A. Robbins Show will be in Gettysburg next Monday, June 19. The Somerset Ohio Press said of this show.

"It is doubtful if a better circus ever visited Somerset than the one of last Thursday—the Frank A. Robbins. From beginning to end the management gave all, or more than was promised in their advanced advertising. Every act was a good one, riding tumbling, wire walking, trapeze work, juggling—there wasn't a dull moment extending over two hours. The various performers were artists in their respective lines, and called forth hearty applause. Everything in connection with the show was neat and well kept, and the various employees were courteous and gentlemanly in the extreme. Not the least interesting feature of the show was a number of animals, forming a very creditable menagerie. Should this show ever visit Somerset again it is sure of having a packed house."

WANTED—Middle-aged housekeeper for small family. Apply to Wm. R. Lauver, Cashtown.
